DNI Clapper Statement on the Minimal Redactions to Senate RDI Report

More than 85% of the Committee Report has been declassified, and half of the redactions are in footnotes. The redactions were the result of an extensive and unprecedented interagency process, headed up by my office, to protect sensitive classified information. We are confident that the declassified document delivered to the Committee will provide the public with a full view of the Committee's report on the detention and interrogation program, and we look forward to a constructive dialogue with the Committee.

James R. Clapper, Director of National Intelligence
